Summary Feedback Report

Introduction

This report provides you with feedback on 17 critical emotional intelligence competencies required for career success and effective performance in your job. PeopleIndex compares your own self-perceptions to those of others in an extensive international database of professionals in diverse industries.

The Importance of Self-Reflection and Feedback

- Accurate self-reflection and feedback is essential to individual growth and development.
- Accurate self-reflection and feedback can act as a powerful stimulus to change your own behavior.
- Seeking input and feedback from others about your PeopleIndex report can help clarify the accuracy of your own self-assessment and facilitate development planning efforts.

How to Use Your PeopleIndex Report

- Analyze and process your PeopleIndex report.
- Understand the impact and consequences of your behavior.
- Identify what you could be doing more of, less of, or differently to increase interpersonal effectiveness.
- To implement a self-directed action plan to enhance emotional intelligence.

The Report Contains:

- EI Competency Definitions
- Competency Summary
- Top and Bottom Behaviors
- Feedback Interpretation

Introduction to Emotional Intelligence

What is Emotional Intelligence?

It's not how intelligent we are, but how we are intelligent. At the most basic level, emotional intelligence is the ability to recognize, understand and manage your emotions and behavior effectively.

What are the Components of Emotional Intelligence?

The most widely accepted model of emotional intelligence (EI) has been influenced by several scientists and researchers. Howard Gardner's (1983) theory of multiple intelligence lists interpersonal and intrapersonal intelligence as unique and different from the mathematical/logical type recognized today as "IQ" or general intelligence. Peter Salovey and John Mayer first proposed their theory of EI in 1990 and Reuven Bar-On (1988) has placed EI in the context of health and well-being. Daniel Goleman (1998) formulated EI in terms of a theory of organizational and job performance.

All these models, however, share a common core of basic concepts including Self-Awareness, Self-Management, Social Awareness, and Relationship Management.

	Perception	Behavior
Self	Self- Awareness	Self- Management
Others	Social Awareness	Relationship Management

What is the Association between Emotional Intelligence and Effectiveness?

A growing research literature suggests that emotional intelligence may play a far more important role in career success and job performance than IQ. Studies suggest that:

- Highly conscientious employees who lack social and emotional intelligence perform more poorly than those high in conscientiousness and emotional intelligence
- On average, strengths in purely cognitive capacities are approximately 27 percent more frequent in high performers than in the average performers, whereas strengths in social and emotional competencies are 53 percent more frequent
- The highest performing managers and leaders have significantly more "emotional competence" than other managers
- Poor social and emotional intelligence are strong predictors of executive and management "derailment" and failure in one's career

Competency Group Introduction

Competency Group Line Graphs

Each PeopleIndex line graph compares your self ratings to those in the international database across three emotional intelligence competency factors:

- Self Management
- Relationship Management
- Communication

How to Interpret Your Graphs

The competency group line graphs compare your own self-perceptions to those in the existing normative database.

Differences of one-half a point or more might suggest important perceptual differences. Each PeopleIndex graph is easy to understand and interpret. You were asked to rate how frequently you demonstrate specific emotional intelligence behaviors using the following 7-point scale:

- 1 To an Extremely Small Extent
- 2 To a Very Small Extent
- 3 To a Small Extent
- 4 To a Moderate Extent
- 5 To a Large Extent
- 6 To a Very Large Extent
- 7 To an Extremely Large Extent

Feedback Interpretation

Using Your PeopleIndex Report to Increase Your Emotional Intelligence

Your PeopleIndex feedback report provides you with information on the four domains of emotional intelligence including 1) Self-Awareness; 2) Social Awareness; 3) Self-Management and 4) Relationship management. The following section includes specific exercises and activities that have been demonstrated to increase overall emotional intelligence, happiness, resilience and emotional well-being in recent research. Each emotional intelligence exercise is based upon the change model shown below to facilitate lasting cognitive, emotive and behavioral changes associated with improved self-control and interpersonal effectiveness with others.

Feedback Interpretation Continued

Self-Awareness Exercises to Enhance Your Emotional Intelligence

- Emotions Log: Keep a written stress and emotions log for a week. Describe the type of stressor and corresponding emotions it elicited. Rate the level of stress (low, moderate, high), your thoughts, emotions (positive or negative) and specific actions you took to manage your emotions productively. Review your log at the end of each day and reflect upon your behavior and responses.
- Identifying Your Signature Strengths: List and identify your "signature" strengths, skills, knowledge and abilities (i.e., those things you have natural talent and do well). Rate each one according to your level of interest in using these signature strengths (low, moderate, high) at work or home. Note the "signature strengths" you have rated as having a "high" interest to utilize.
- Seek Feedback: Share your PeopleIndex report with others. Solicit feedback from at least two people: 1) a supporter who values your style and strengths; and 2) a possible critic of your style. Ask both for their reactions to your report and to identify your strengths and potential development areas. Compare the reactions and feedback from both and note any similarities and/or differences. How does the feedback compare to your self-perceptions? What input and feedback can you use to improve your overall emotional intelligence?
- Gratitude Appraisal: Each day for a week, reflect and write down one thing you feel truly blessed about in your life and why (e.g., aspects about your health, family, work/home situation). Evaluate how gratitude impacts your overall well-being.
- Gratitude Gift: Identify someone in your life who has made it richer or has contributed to your development in a significant way and has not really been properly thanked or acknowledged. Write that person a short note or letter expressing what they have meant to you. Describe how you value what they have done to enrich your life. Visit the person and deliver the letter or mail it to them if this is not possible.
- Daily Affirmation: Each day for a week actively reflect upon and write down one thing about the day that was positive and enjoyable. What was it that made it positive? How did it make you feel?

Self-Management Exercises to Enhance Your Emotional Intelligence

- Utilizing Your Signature Strengths: Select one or two "signature" strengths rated high in the previous Self-Awareness exercise and that you are interested in using more (knowledge, skills, abilities, talents). For one week, attempt to use one of your "signature" strengths in a new and different way. Keep a journal to chronicle how you have used this strength and how it made you feel to employ it in work and non-work activities. Reflect on how you can continue to expand the use of your "signature strengths" on an ongoing basis for work and pleasure.
- Life Balance Wheel: Each week contains a total of 168 hours. Write down how many hours you actually spent doing activities such as sleeping, eating, working, fun/recreation, travel, family responsibilities, personal development, other. Now rate the quality of each category you created and spent time doing on a 1 to 10 scale where 10=Very Satisfied and 1=Very Dissatisfied. How balanced is your life? What areas are you most unsatisfied with? What specific actions can you take to facilitate increasing life satisfaction?
- My Reactive Style: Write down and describe how you typically behave and feel for each of these: 1) Difficult people you interact with (who are they and why are they "challenging" for you?); 2) When you are stressed (how do you typically express stress emotionally, cognitively and behaviorally?); and 3) When in conflict with someone, what is your primary conflict style (competitive, collaborative, compromising, accommodative or avoidant?). For each, reflect on what you can do differently to handle the situation in a more productive manner leading to healthy emotions, reactions and outcomes.
- Personal Development Plan: Identify a personal or professional plan for the next 12 months that you would like to accomplish. It should be one that you are truly motivated and committed to work on. Write out this plan with specific action steps and a way to evaluate progress. Make a note of this professional goal and put it in a visible place where you will be able to see it each day (e.g., on your PDA, laptop, desk). Publicize and announce this plan to a colleague, friend, family member, partner, coach or mentor.

Social Awareness Exercises to Enhance Your Emotional Intelligence

- Engaged Listening: Each day for a week, engage with a friend, worker, family member or co-worker to actively listen when interacting with them to increase empathy and understanding of others. Try to speak less, summarize what you have heard before expressing your thoughts and opinions, and reflect back the feelings you seem to be interpreting based on both the content of what others share with you and their non-verbal behaviors (e.g., use phrases such as "It seems like you are saying..." or "I'm hearing..." or "I sense you are feeling...").
- Network Circle: Draw a large circle. Inside, write the names of those family members, friends, co-workers, partners, significant others whom you would identify as your most important supporters and those closest to you (e.g., those who provide information, emotional support, direct assistance etc.). Next to each person's name in your circle, note how often you have actually utilized or interacted with the individual in the last month (L=low extent, M=moderate extent, H=high extent). Finally, reflect on how satisfied you were with the quality of the interaction or support they provided to you.
- My Interpersonal Style: Take a popular personality, interpersonal or social style assessment instrument to identify your own approach to communicating, leading, thinking, and managing relationships with others. Identify people in your life (work, family, friends) with whom you would like to improve your relationship and, using the model behind PeopleIndex, identify their style and reflect on how you can strengthen your interactions (e.g., by understanding they are logical you might be able to provide an analytical and a non-emotional approach to resolve conflict and work more cooperatively).
- Self as a Model: Write about a recent time when you were at your best while interacting and working with others displaying and utilizing your "signature strengths" to accomplish something of importance that left you feeling particularly satisfied, empowered and confident. Review your story each night for one week and reflect on the strengths you utilized and the feelings that came with their successful deployment.

Relationship Management Exercises to Enhance Your Emotional Intelligence

- Relationship Energizers: Make a list of people in your life that are "energy drainers" (those who are difficult, challenging, frustrating, annoying and tire you out). What is it that makes the social interactions with these individuals less pleasurable and desirable? Learn to say "no" to these individuals and reflect on plans to minimize or eliminate interactions with these individuals.
- D-E-S-C Technique: Identify someone meaningful at work or home whose behavior, if changed, would improve the quality of your relationship. Write out four brief sentences to provide this individual with feedback and request a specific change in behavior using the D-E-S-C technique: 1) Describe (describe specifically and in behavioral terms what the individual is doing or not doing that is challenging for you. Focus on behaviors and not his/her personality; 2) Express how the behavior makes you feel (use an "I" statement to share the impact on your feelings); 3) Specify the specific behaviors you would like the individual to make (i.e., share what the person should do more, less or differently to meet your needs or be less of a challenge to you); and 4) Consequences (share first the positive consequences that his/her changed behavior will have on you and your relationship. You might also consider negative consequences of what you will do if the behavior does not change if that would be received in a non-defensive manner and facilitate motivation to change). Rehearse these four steps out loud and initiate a meeting with the individual to utilize the D-E-S-C technique. If you are interrupted at any step, just go back and complete that step until you have expressed the behavior you want changed.
- Give-Get-Merge-Go Technique: To facilitate being experienced as involvement oriented and open to non-defensively resolving conflict with others, practice using the Give-Get-Merge-Go Technique: 1) Give your point of view (express your idea, thought, suggestion or opinion); 2) Get his/her point of view (ask explicitly and directly what reactions the individual has to your ideas); 3) Merge your point of view and theirs by summarizing what you have heard the other person has said (don't debate, provide more rationale for your point of view or ask questions during this step); and 4) Go and review the areas where you agree and areas where you disagree. Either reach a closure to the conversation or ask what next steps need to be taken to move ahead in your interpersonal interaction. Identify someone meaningful at work or home and practice the Give-Get-Merge-Go Technique. Review and evaluate how your relationship can be improved.

Development Planning Guide

Examining your PeopleIndex Feedback Report

Your reactions to your PeopleIndex feedback report provide insight that is useful not only in the interpretation of the results, but in deciding what you may do about them. Start with your feelings about the results.

Emotional Reaction

Your initial reaction to your summary feedback report is important. It provides insight that is useful in interpreting your results and in deciding what competencies you will target for your developmental planning efforts. Start with your feelings about your summary feedback report. If you had to select a single word or phrase to describe your emotional reactions, to your summary feedback report it would be:

---

What is it about your report that leads you to feel this way?

---

How do your self-ratings compare to the PeopleIndex Norms?

---

What trends do you see (things that are surprising or validating)?

---

What new insights, if any do you get from your report?

The purpose of your PeopleIndex feedback is to assist you to develop crucial Self-Management, Relationship Management and Communication competencies. Developing skills can be challenging because it almost always means replacing current behavior with a new pattern of behavior. This is not easy! Research suggests that desired change is more likely to be successful when:

- The desired competency is specifically defined
- There is commitment and motivation to change behavior
- An action plan is shared with others
- An analysis is made of reasons for potential lack of success
- Other people support your behavior change
- The behavioral outcomes are visible and can be measured

The action plan worksheet on the next page will assist you in developing one of the competencies you have identified based on the results of your PeopleIndex. As you begin your action plan, consider the following:

- Focus on being specific
- Use the recommendations in your feedback report as a basis for your behavioral plan
- Keep your plan simple and put it in writing
- Define how to monitor and evaluate results
